

Key Messages of the ABEM Policy on Examination Irregularities for Computer-delivered Examination Test Takers

- The examination I am taking is a confidential, copyrighted examination
- I cannot write, talk about, or share any examination content with anyone in any way, during this examination or in the future.
- I cannot access outside information while taking this examination. This means I cannot access a cell phone or other possible external information source when taking unscheduled breaks during today's examination.
- ABEM will investigate violations of this policy
- If I violate the terms of this policy I am subject to sanctions including but not limited to the following:
 - Invalidation of an exam administration
 - Loss of ABEM certification
 - Legal action for copyright infringement
